

Yasmine Chatila

APRIL 7, 2009

The Bachelor, Wall Street, Friday 11:34 PM

I recently had dinner with some new and old friends at Palma, a lovely Mediterranean Italian restaurant in the West Village. The meal was served family style, which was conducive to this type of gathering- lots of laughter, random topics and interesting stories. I sat next to a very talented artist, Yasmine Chatila, whose work I find beautiful. She finds the subtle intricacies in her subjects and somehow each piece is quiet yet disturbing in the same breath.

From April 9 until May 16th her work will be up at the gallery, Affirmation Arts. The show, Surveillance, curated by Rachel D. Vancelette features other artists including Tomory Dodge, Jeffrey Gibson, Charles Harlan, Shin il Kim, Caitlin Maloney, and Angelo Plessas.

Affirmation Arts

523 West 37 Street, New York NY 10018

Gallery Hours: Monday-Friday 10-6, Sat, 11 - 5 pm

Tagged: Art friends talent why i love new york

Filed under: Art

Inclined to Create is a branding and marketing consultancy. We help our clients drive new business, develop creative initiatives and connect the dots along the way. Read more...

Recently on Inclined to Create:

TO YOU: MAURICE SENDAK

READ: HAS INNOVATION LOST ITS MEANING?

WHERE I'VE BEEN: PARIS

READ: THE MAGIC OF DOING ONE THING AT A TIME

MONDAY MORNING INSPIRATION: CRISTIANA COUCEIRO

Well good morning to you NY and your 94% humidity. # 4 hours ago

@taralcilani on Twitter

Categories

ADVERTISING

ARCHITECTURE

ART

CONFERENCE

DESIGN

DRINK

EXPERIENCE

FASHION

HUNGRY

INTERVIEW

MAGAZINE

MOMENT

MOVIE

MUSIC